project menu

Navigate within the project website, find and manage project members, project emails, FAQ etc.

project blog

Use it as the project managers' news channel, or a project diary or something similar. Instigate discussion!

related documents

The latest versions of all relevant documents are always located near the page content to which they relate. You don't have to memorize where a certain document is stored because in ALLSITE it's just where you'd expect it to be.

timeline

Plan the project's future and analyze its past. Every event has its own page containing all the relevant information, e.g. agenda, minutes, presentations.

search

Start a comprehensive full text search on pages, within documents, emails and the memo board with just one click.

memo board

The memo board is a project-related chatroom. It is the easiest way for team members to communicate and share

project mail

All project-related emails are automatically collected by ALLSITE. Even if a project member leaves the project or the company, Allsite retains the valuable information contained in his project-related emails.

The times of lonely fighters are over!

Today, productive work is accomplished by teams. Efficient information policies, intelligent data management and streamlined communication are the key prerequisites for fruitful team collaboration and successful projects.

ALLSITE Timeline has the radical and refreshing agenda to comprise all the project related and electronic communication devices (agenda, files, emails, memos, news, minutes, discussions, ...) in one single software.

ALLSITE Timeline is easy to use, clear and self-explanatory. ALLSITE Timeline offers only the key features a user really needs for his everyday work. In this respect ALLSITE Timeline is different from the powerful, complex and monolithic software systems like enterprise content management, document management and enterprise wiki systems.

ALLSITE Timeline combines those key features with a totally new approach to integrate emails with Web-2.0-technologies like Blog and RSS. The completely new "timeline" component enables users to file their data and knowledge along the most natural classification system: time.
